Jason Morwick

Jason Morwick is a consultant and author who writes about remote working, leading in the virtual workplace, and business process improvement. Jason is co-author of the book Workshift: Future-Proof Your Organization for the 21st Century (Palgrave Macmillon, 2013), a handbook for organizations transitioning into the virtual workplace. He is also co-author of Making Telework Work: Leading People and Leveraging Technology for High-impact Results (Nicholas Brealey Publishing, 2009), a guide for managers and leaders on creating a case for telework and managing remote workers. He has published in journals, magazines, and websites such as Quality Progress, Review of Business, Business Journal, Strategic HR Review, American Business Review, iSixSigma Magazine, and isixsigma.com. Jason is also the co-author of Gridiron Leadership: Winning Strategies and Breakthrough Tactics (Praeger, 2009) and contributing author to Six Sigma Software Quality Improvement (McGraw-Hill, 2011).

As a founding member of the consulting company, FlexWork Global, Jason helped organizations design strategies, implement program plans and train leaders and employees as they prepared to transition to the modern, flexible workplace. His past clients included Thomson Reuters, Tufts Health Plan, and Blue Cross Blue Shield.

Jason is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point and former Army officer. He earned a Masters of Business Administration from Regis University, Denver, Colorado. Jason has managed teams in a variety of industries from hospitality to supply chain to technology to finance while working for companies such as Cisco Systems, Wyndham, and General Electric. Jason has focused on business process improvement and project management. He is a Six Sigma Master Black Belt and certified Project Management Professional (PMP). He has worked in a variety of positions to include Six Sigma Master Black Belt, Program Manager, Director of Human Resources, and Director of Industrial Engineering. Jason has trained thousands of employees in Six Sigma, Diversity, Project Management, Communication Skills, Remote Working/Telework, and Leadership.